The driver's negative emotions cannot be comforted when they are nervous.

Encountering traffic jams during morning rush hours, drivers and passengers feel bored while waiting, but there is no way to alleviate boredom

When using someone else's car, the seat height of the vehicle needs to be adjusted to suit oneself, which feels very inconvenient

Nowadays, the car is not only used as a means of transport but also as a place to relax, and many people like to take a break in the car after work to adjust their mood.

Vehicles cannot bring people a sense of freshness, and people only use them as a means of transportation after long-term use
