

交互原则

For Owner	Action	• Drive with friends 	• On the way to work • Morning peak 	• On the way to work 	• Feeling tired on the road 	• Feeling sad alone in the car
	Emotions
For Vehical	Method
	Immediate feedback	• Play the music • Adjust the volume 	• Turn on the auxiliary driving function. • Release a relaxed scent. 	• Animation interaction. • Interacting based on weather. 	• Blow the bubble game. • Help users relax through deep breath. 	• Displays healing pictures adjust user mentality • Adjust user mentality
	Cumulative feedback	• Record the user's response • Make corresponding adjustments	• User habits update.	• Produce unique images. • Share experiences online.	• Record user data • Develop personalized programs	• Record the user's favorite style • Make appropriate adjustments

工作原理

Input

Identification

perference

general information

service information

Multiple Resource Theory

- To avoid overloading the visual channel, some information can be presented through the auditory channel, which can effectively reduce the workload of drivers.

Output

Nav

ADAS

Adjust

Shortcut assistant

Accompany

Entertainment

Yale's law

- New and experienced drivers require different levels of attention in road visual retrieval.
- If the system often provides visual information to novice drivers, it can easily lead to an increase in workload

Situational awareness

- Manual driving: observing the road surface (understanding+prediction)
↓
manipulating the vehicle (decision-making)
- Autonomous driving: